

Roosevelt Describes Relief Situation as 'Very Serious,' Points Out Need for Money

President Recommends No Set Figure, but Says Recent Data Bears Out Previous Proposal

No Great Change

Roosevelt Says No Substantial Change in Unemployment Since February

Washington, March 14 (AP)—T. Jefferson Coolidge, one-time treasury official who quit the administration, urged congress today to curb the President's monetary powers.

Coolidge told a senate banking and currency subcommittee that "our banking system is overflooded" as a result of a gold devaluation policy, and he declared, the President's power to devalue the dollar still further should be allowed to expire on June 30.

Coolidge is one of several men who have left posts in the treasury after policy disagreements. He was the department's under-secretary for a time and now is a Boston banker.

President's Message
Washington, March 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt, describing the relief situation as "very serious," told the lawmakers today that responsibility for appropriating sufficient money to carry on WPA until July 1 "rest of necessity" on Congress.

While not recommending a specific deficiency figure, the President in a special message asserted recent data furnished him substantiated the "real need" of his previous proposal for an additional appropriation of $150,000,000.

This was the amount out by Congress from his original January request for $375,000,000 to run WPA the last five months of the fiscal year, and which he asked to have restored in a message February 7.

No Substantial Change
In his message today, Mr. Roosevelt said there had been no substantial change in conditions of unemployment since then.

"The government of the United States is faced today with a condition not theory," the Chief Executive declared. "The insufficiency of the money appropriated will compel the administrator to discharge about a million and a quarter actual workers in the immediate future."

"I cannot bring myself to believe that these discharged men and women will contribute to the prosperity of the United States, nor do I believe that the merchants and landlords they are now dealing with will become prosperous when their trade ceases."

Congressional Responsibility
"Therefore, the responsibility for the situation in which all of these people will find themselves during the coming three months rests of necessity within the decision of the Congress of the United States."

The President said it was "wholly within the right of any and all of us to study and work for the greater efficiency of government" and that additional studies were proper. He declared, however, that the government was faced at the moment with a condition not an abstraction.

Answers Allegations
He also said there had been allegations that he would be satisfied if no further appropriation were made for the coming three months.

"I feel that in justice to myself," the President said, "I must make it clear that I am not sending this message to the Congress merely for the purpose of going through motions."

"For more than six years it has been the definite policy of the President and the Congress that needy persons, out of work, should not be allowed to starve; and it was an obligation of the federal government to give work to those able to work and an obligation of state and local government and of private charities to take care of those needy persons who are unable to work."

"That policy, I am more than ever confident, is right. It should not be abandoned now."

3,000,000 on Relief
The President said approximately 3,000,000 persons were now on work relief and about 850,000 were on the "waiting" list.

He predicted a substantial pick-up in employment between now and June because of improved business conditions, but said it was not expected that 90,000 on WPA rolls would increase 3,550,000 to be cared for July 1.

The Chief Executive added that about 30,000 aliens had been removed from the rolls in accordance with the law.

Lehman Says Costs Below 'Model' States

Governor Says Implication That Operating Costs Are Greater Than Most Other States, Is Misleading and Fooled Many Into Believing Per Capita Rate Is Higher

Albany, N. Y., March 14 (AP)—Governor Lehman, retorting to charges of extravagance in New York's government, declared today that the per capita cost of the state government is "very much less than in states long held up as models of economy."

Advisory Council Advocates Relief Under One Agency

New York WPA Administrator Gets Report of Group He Asked Last May to Survey Economic Problem

New York, March 14 (AP)—Unification of federal relief activities under a single agency is recommended in a report made to Leut. Col. Brehon B. Somervell, New York city WPA administrator, by an advisory council of business and industrial leaders.

The council, asked last May by Somervell to survey the problem, suggested a national program be substituted for present scattered relief activities and that work relief be "separated" from politics.

The members also urged that government policy be concentrated primarily on the promotion of economic prosperity to reduce the need for public assistance; that relief workers be paid a lower hourly wage than that prevailing in private employment, and that in order to preserve their morale, relief equipments should be permitted to retain ownership of their homes, life insurance policies and small savings.

An accompanying report by the advisory council's research staff, headed by Dr. Don D. Leschler, economics professor at the University of Wisconsin, asserted that combined federal, state and local relief expenditures increased from four per cent of the national income in 1933 to seven per cent in 1937.

"They accounted for from 27.5 per cent to 31.5 per cent of the total expenditures of the federal government from 1933 through 1937," Dr. Leschler's report added. "In September, 1938, there were 9,900,000 families receiving public assistance at a cost for the month of $345,000,000."

"Total expenditures on relief of the federal, state and local governments rose from about $1,600,000,000 in 1933 to about $1,000,000,000 in 1937 and 1938. In 1936 there was a sharp increase to more than $5,300,000,000, followed by a decline to approximately $1,500,000,000 in 1937."

Sealed Indictment
New York, March 14 (AP)—A grand jury which has been occupied mainly in investigating the case of the late F. Donald Coster-Musica handed up a sealed indictment today to Supreme Court Justice Francis D. McCurn in Brooklyn.

Assistant Attorney General John Harlan Amen declined to disclose the nature of the indictment or how many defendants were named.

He also said there had been allegations that he would be satisfied if no further appropriation were made for the coming three months.

"I feel that in justice to myself," the President said, "I must make it clear that I am not sending this message to the Congress merely for the purpose of going through motions."

"For more than six years it has been the definite policy of the President and the Congress that needy persons, out of work, should not be allowed to starve; and it was an obligation of the federal government to give work to those able to work and an obligation of state and local government and of private charities to take care of those needy persons who are unable to work."

Prior Asks Albany County Vote Case Get Trial Change

Counsel for Two Defendants in Surprise Move Says His Clients Cannot Get Fair Trial

30-Day Delay

If Change of Venue Is Allowed Defense Will Get 30 Days' Delay

The Albany vote fraud inquiry was brought to Ulster county Monday when Daniel H. Prior, counsel for two defendants in the inquiry, paved the way for an application to change the place of trial from Albany county by applying to Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick here for a stay pending argument of a motion to change the place of trial.

Surprise Move
The application came as a surprise move by Prior, who contends that his clients cannot receive a "fair and impartial" trial in Albany county.

Prior made a motion Monday for a stay in the trial of William Germano and Mrs. Mae Carlson of Albany which is scheduled to open Wednesday morning at an extraordinary term in Albany. Both defendants are named in one indictment which charges payment of $5 to influence a vote.

The motion for a stay is returnable this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before Justice Harry E. Schirick here at the March term of court. If the stay is granted it will be pending application for a change of venue. Should the stay be granted the defense will have 30 days in which to move for a change of venue.

Submits Affidavits
In making the stay motion, Prior submitted to Justice Schirick affidavits both of Germano and Mrs. Carlson. These papers, according to Prior, stated that a "fair and impartial trial" couldn't be had in Albany county because "the minds of jurors are apt to be confused by politics rather than the issue of the guilt or innocence of the defendants." He also gave as reasons for the application, wide publicity of reports of vote fraud investigations.

This move by Prior for a stay came as a surprise to the attorney general who was ready for trial on Wednesday morning. Assistant Attorney General James A. McGough, who will prosecute, had approximately 35 witnesses under subpoena for the trial.

U.S. Census Bureau To Get Personal
Decennial Census Next Year to Try to Help Solve Labor, Economic Problems

Washington, March 14 (AP)—The census bureau is laying the basis for the broadest inquiry into personal affairs the nation ever has undertaken.

It is preparing, with the aid of private and governmental experts, the questions that will be asked in every home next year in the decennial census.

Out of the answers will come the information on which federal and state governments will base their laws and administrative actions for the next 10 years and on which the seals in Congress will be reallocated among the states.

Those are the purposes of every census. The by-products from the next census promise, however, to be fully as useful.

In addition to the problem of population, the questions will delve into employment and economic subjects, particularly into incomes of workers, how much they pay for rents, and how they are housed.

Since the 1930 census, economic upsets have not only knocked askew ordinary population movements but they have produced new problems of equal importance.

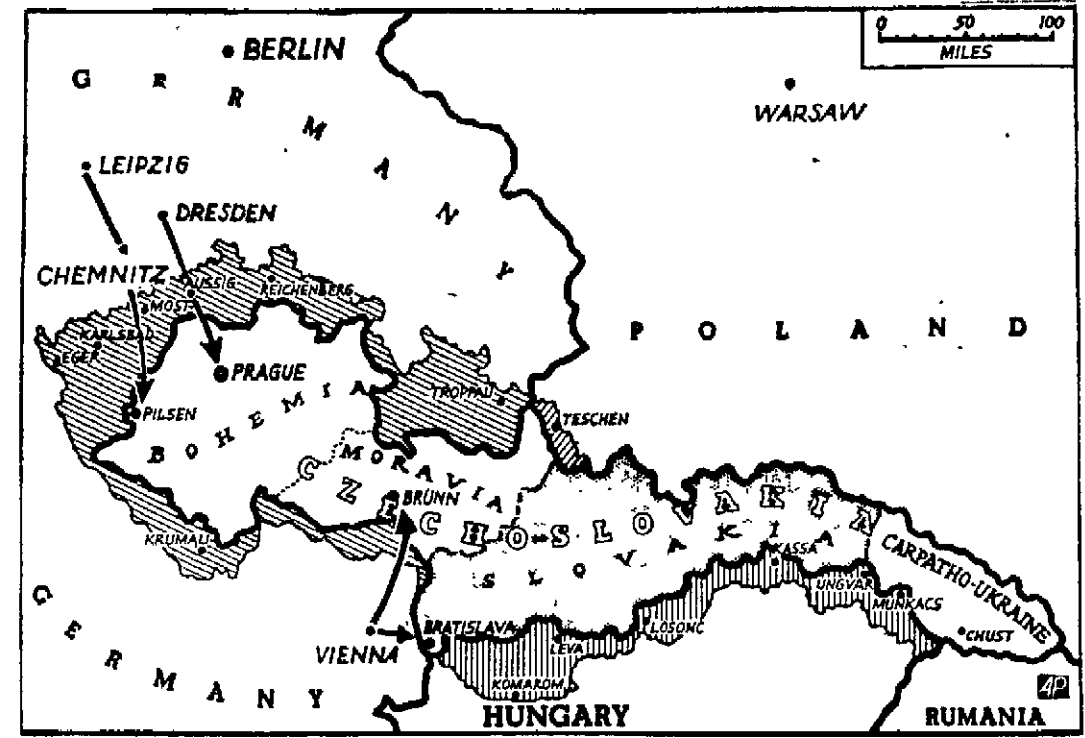

They have set economists to inquiring about the low income group that is said to form a third of the population. How much money does it make? How does its income and living vary from region to region? How long have those without jobs been out of work? How are the houses fixed for baths? How many persons live in a room?

Out of the answers to these questions, the economists will piece together analysis that will help to guide not only government but industry, labor and agriculture.

Sentence Suspended
Russell North, arrested by Troopers Reilly and Senecal, following a collision between his car and that of Murray Miller of 35 West O'Reilly street, was arraigned before Justice L. D. Sahler of Stone Ridge on a charge of reckless driving. The judge fined North $25, which was paid and suspended execution on a sentence of 25 days in the county jail.

Hitler May Take New Route

Arrows on this map indicate routes which may be taken by German troops if Adolf Hitler gives marching orders on the basis of developments in the Slovak separatist movement. Berlin reports said one army group might proceed from Dresden toward Prague, and another from Leipzig by way of Chemnitz to Pilsen and Prague. A third might go from Vienna to Brunn and a fourth from Vienna to Bratislava. The latter city is where fatal bomb explosions punctuated the separatist demands of Slovaks who staged violent anti-Czech demonstrations.

Po'keepsie Group Wins First Place In First Aid Rally

New York Tel. Co. Contest for Eastern Division Is Held at Municipal Auditorium; Eight Teams Compete

Compelling in an eight-team first aid contest staged by the Eastern Division of the New York Telephone Co. on Monday evening in the municipal auditorium, the maintenance team from the Poughkeepsie office won first place; Hudson took second place, while third place was awarded the Poughkeepsie construction team.

Kingston was represented by two teams in the contest and other municipalities represented were Newburgh, Monticello and Ellenville.

Personnel of Teams
The personnel of the teams participating were:
Hudson: M. Hamilton, captain, D. C. Ebnis, L. P. Ilyser, Jr., L. H. Thysolm, A. H. Keller, patient, C. E. Decker, coach.

Kingston Maintenance: W. E. McQuade, captain, C. G. Donohue, H. I. Engle, V. H. Steeley, P. E. Jones, patient, G. E. McLane, coach.

Kingston Cable Repair: A. T. Hutton, captain, G. N. Fleming, F. W. Pinnney, W. F. Schenman, J. Hart, patient, A. A. Schultz, coach.

Newburgh: C. K. Hawks, captain, E. P. Carhart, B. Clark, L. Wright, G. E. May, patient, W. F. Chamberlain, coach.

Ellenville: E. B. Johnson, captain, A. F. Millot, F. E. Ray, A. B. Terwilliger, H. E. Sutherland, patient, H. L. Ray, coach.

Poughkeepsie Maintenance: R. H. Nuckenhaupt, captain, R. J. Malthouse, Sr., A. A. Race, F. J. Zimmer, C. W. Hausman, patient, W. Slopher, Jr., coach.

Monticello Construction: M. H. Armstrong, captain, C. J. Behan, T. F. Leigh, W. G. Sheak, D. D. Frank, patient, A. B. Carhart, coach.

Poughkeepsie Construction: O. J. Kolbinskie, captain, J. L. Beupre, M. F. Brown, L. R. Campbell, W. L. Cummings, patient, W. Black, Jr., coach.

Problems Demonstrated
The contest was staged in the center of the auditorium floor when a first aid problem was demonstrated. Two other problems were demonstrated Monday afternoon before the judges, and the total scores of both tests were combined to select the winning teams.

The judges, all employees of the telephone company, were J. J. Bailey and J. P. Brady of Schoenectady, J. D. Brown of Albany, G. J. Cogan of Saranac Lake, D. H. Harvey of Albany, L. A. Irvin of Plattsburg, C. H. Kallenburg of Amsterdam, L. H. Lapham of Plattsburg, G. A. Moore of Ogdensburg, G. W. Nelson of Schoenectady, H. J. Porter and R. H. Potter of Albany.

The first aid problem was that of a man found lying on his back with both arms at sides of body with breathing suspended and with injuries of the right wrist, left hip, left hand and right foot. The injuries were to be treated.

Ulster Milk Farmers Adopt Waiting Game

Deadline for Dealers to Place Names on Contracts is Midnight and Schoonmaker Says Situation About Same—Pennsylvania Appeals to Progressives—Noyes Doubtful

Ulster county milk producers, along with those from all over New York state, are experiencing mostly a period of "watchful waiting" until final reports come in showing just how many dealers supplying the New York area have signed contracts agreeing to abide by the provisions of the invalidated federal-state milk marketing order.

Deadline at Midnight
Midnight tonight is the deadline for dealers who have not signed contracts to place their names on the dotted line. So far about 85 per cent of the dealers have signed up. At least 90 per cent of signatures is necessary in order to bring success to those producers who have been fighting to retain the schedule of prices in effect for some months past under the old order.

John L. Schoonmaker, chairman of the Ulster county committee representing the producers who favor the order and who have been working night and day to induce dealers to sign up and to line up producers in the county, said this morning that the situation was about as it had been. His committee will meet tonight and there will be nothing to report until word has been received from the administrator as to just what the situation is.

'We Will Go Home'
"In event we receive word that 90 per cent of the dealers have signed up we will go home and try to make up on some of our lost sleep," said Mr. Schoonmaker. As to what would be done, however, in case the report shows that the necessary number have not signed, the Ulster county chairman did not venture an opinion.

At a meeting held in Utica Friday, composed of representatives of the Ulster county committee, Secretary Morgenthau said today to revamp the treasury's administrative setup to obviate any more "protest resignations" of high fiscal officials.

He has decided, it was learned authoritatively, to assign different duties to whoever is chosen to replace Wayne C. Taylor. The latter quit the job of fiscal assistant secretary because of differences over banking and international policies.

The reasons, an official said, lie beyond the Taylor case. Several officials had resigned previously because of policy disagreements. Among them were Undersecretaries Dean Acheson and Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, Budget Director.

Marriage Legislation to Reduce 'Wait' Now in Lehman's Hands

Albany, N. Y., March 14 (AP)—Relaxing of New York's statutes to cut from six to four days the time when marriage-bent couples must wait after applying for a license was left to Governor Lehman's discretion today.

The necessary legislation was sponsored by Republican Assemblywoman Jane Todd, author of a 1937 law requiring a lapse of 72 hours between issuance of the marriage license and the ceremony, and reached the governor's desk after unanimous Senate approval last night. The bill previously had passed the Assembly.

It would reduce the "wait" after the license is obtained to 24 hours. This period would be added to the three-day delay now necessitated by necessary laboratory checkups on the blood test for syphilis which all prospective newlyweds, under a 1933 law, must take. Results of the medical test must be approved before the license can be issued.

The existing "72-hour" law was sponsored by Miss Todd to halt what she termed "hasty" or "gin" marriages, which she said were planned over New York city night clubs tables and culminated in dawn ceremonies.

Her new bill, she explained, would "retain the necessary protection against such marriages and at the same time impose a hardship by undue delay of the nuptials."

The measure, which Miss Todd said would be made effective June 1 "to take care of the June brides," originally would have eliminated entirely the 72-hour lapse after issuance of the license. She amended it to retain the one-day delay after the license is obtained at the behest of church groups.

"They claimed that many officials issuing licenses had pressure young couples (i.e.) immediately civil weddings," she said, "and they felt that retention of the 24 hours would turn many such couples to religious ceremonies."

Bratislava, March 15 (AP)—Forty persons were reported killed today in a battle between Czech troops and Carpatho-Ukrainians at Chust, Carpatho-Ukraine capital.

The reports, which were not confirmed immediately, said a hotel occupied by the German consul had been surrounded by Czech forces and "some concern" was felt for the consul's safety.

Republic Ends

The Prague government announced today the formal dissolution of the federal Czechoslovak state, from which Slovakia already had declared its independence.

Thus the republic envisioned during the World War by President Woodrow Wilson and created at the Versailles peace conference ended its existence.

It collapsed after nearly six months of disintegration which followed the September 29 accord of Munich, where the nation was dismembered to keep Europe from a general war.

The government's announcement was the first official notice the Czech people had of the new situation, although the Czechoslovak cabinet earlier had resigned.

Day's Happenings

This is what happened today: President Emil Hacha, under pressure from Adolf Hitler, convened the Slovak Parliament.

The Slovaks declared themselves an independent state with Dr. Joseph Tiso as the new premier.

The Czechoslovak cabinet of Premier Rudolf Beran drew the consequences from this secession and resigned.

The Czech unity party was summoned for a conference to decide what to do next in the thoroughly confused state.

Tiso appealed to Hitler for help against the Czechs, whose troops still were occupying Bratislava and other Slovak centers;

Hungarians penetrated a reported 18 miles into Carpatho-Ukraine, easternmost section of Czechoslovakia;

From German language "Isles"—sections within the Czech part of the republic where German is the chief language—came appeals to Hitler for "delivery from the Czech terror."

Year After Austria

All this happened just a year after Hitler joined Austria and Germany.

Thus Hitler, who year after year has surprised the world during the month of March, used this month to change the map of Europe still further and to extend German domination eastward.

While Czechoslovakia was convulsed with her internal crisis, German troops began to march toward her borders—ready to enforce Hitler's will by arms.

They were clogging the main military roads leading from Dresden and Leipzig toward Bohemia, and from Vienna toward Bratislava and Prague.

Jews in Bohemia and Moravia—the section of Czechoslovakia under domination of Prague—were asking whether they had better get out in a hurry before Hitler took charge.

Heavy Snowfall Attracts Skiers

Belated winter weather over the week-end brought a considerable crowd to the Ulster county winter resort centers. It was learned today. Although the storm came too late to make snow trails possible many folks from the metropolitan area came by motor buses when it was found the storm was sufficient for skiing.

At Pine Hill and Phoenicia many came by private cars for the skiing on the elevations above 2,000 feet and with the snow reaching down to the lower levels on Saturday additional ski enthusiasts came by bus. Three buses brought skiers to Phoenicia Sunday to enjoy a 14½ inch fall of snow. Many Kingston people also went to the skiing centers.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to keep regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

for a final fling of winter sports. The snow storm on Sunday did not discourage those who enjoy the sport and there were several hundred who braved the storm and visited the Simpson Memorial slope at Phoenicia. Blinding snow throughout the day made the sport dangerous on the trails as vision was limited. One skier lost the trail and crashed into a tree inflicting severe cuts and bruises but undiscouraged appeared later at the slope with numerous patches of plaster and bandages. A lack of frost in the ground and prospects of warmer weather indicate an early going of the snow.

Word Rhapsody in Music

Was Used by Franz Liszt
The use of the word Rhapsody as applied to music, was one of Franz Liszt's many happy hits in musical terms, relates a writer in the Detroit News.

The ancient Greeks used the word to refer to recitations selected from epic poetry—the type which recalls great events and tells about them in lofty style, full of feeling, piecing together bits of this and that like a rich quilt.

As a result of his Hungarian childhood, and his deep love of gypsy music, Liszt wrote 19 Hungarian Rhapsodies. They are collections of Magyar melodies with gypsy-like ornaments. Trills and scales hang over the melodies like colored strands of sparkling beads.

One of the most popular old Hungarian dances is the Czardas, with its very slow spots full of desolation and its "friska" which increases to furious gaiety.

The Czardas has cast its shadow over all Liszt's Rhapsodies for they all have these extreme contrasts of mood.

Liszt wrote his Rhapsodies for his own instrument, the piano, and many of them, particularly the favored second Rhapsody, have been arranged for orchestra and other instruments.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This must be told anonymously. The young man is troubled and ashamed, as he should be. Listen:

"Shortly after coming to New York I formed the habit of lunching at a restaurant on 42nd street near Grand Central terminal. There was a very attractive hostess there, an Irish girl, and I asked her to go out with me. She laughed it off for awhile, and then began making vague excuses, and the more she put me off the more anxious I became to see her away from that restaurant and become acquainted with her.

"Every day I left notes for her. I would write them on paper napkins, or even on the table cloth. One day I begged her to let me take her father and mother and her to dinner, so that they could get to know me, and to allay any thought that might persist that my intentions weren't on the level. She even demurred at this, but eventually she said yes, and I went with her to meet her mother and we had a lovely dinner and evening together. Her father was dead.

"After that I was a welcome guest in their home, and the girl and I went to many theaters together and to parties, and so in time we became close friends, and no day ever passed that if I couldn't see her we telephoned and talked, it seems now, for hours.

"One night I knew that I would have to come to some decision, as she was in love with me, and it wasn't right to monopolize her time and her affections if I weren't going to return them.

"You see, I wasn't really in love with her. She was sweet, and sincere and a lovely girl in every way. So I made up my mind to just fade out of the picture. To bring this about in a natural way I told her that I had been ordered to South America for six months, and to make it look good I even went down to a shipping company and booked passage on the Vestris. They wanted to come down to the pier and see me off, but I told them that farewells made me too unhappy, and so it was arranged that they were to give me a dinner, which they did, and then, after promising faithfully to write, I got into a cab and drove away.

"Then I telephoned cancelling my passage and went into hiding. Well, you know what happened. The Vestris sank and 178 people lost their lives. Can you imagine my feelings? Can you imagine the remorse I felt at thinking what must have been in that girl's mind? For days I wallowed in a welter of indecision. I sank into a brooding melancholy that left me spent and almost cost me my reason.

"But I never telephoned. I am ashamed to say that I never telephoned. And after a while it was too late to telephone, for no one could forgive such an outrage as that.

Short-Tailed Shrew Is Active but Rarely Seen

Over the eastern half of the United States and some of southeastern Canada the short-tailed shrews are abundant and important small mammals, although they are rarely seen, writes Vernon Bailey in Nature Magazine. We call them small, but among the shrews they are one of the largest, being about mouse size and of sturdy build and bloodthirsty disposition.

They are burrowers and ground dwellers, keeping much under cover and out of sight. Almost mole-like in structure and habits, they have functional, although small eyes, scarcely visible ears, short legs, short tail, and velvety fur that always keeps clean and glossy. A pointed flexible nose serves the place of eyes in dark tunnels where much of their food is gathered by sense of smell and feeling, but the pinhead eyes may be keen in the dark at short range. Their beautiful brown-tipped teeth are effective weapons for holding, cutting and crushing their prey, most of which are insects and other small animals up to their own size or even larger.

While true insectivores and equipped with hooked incisors intended mainly for catching and holding insects and their relatives, while crushing them with their heavy molars, they are able also to kill and eat vertebrates as large as themselves.

With a simple but rapid digestive system, they are hearty feeders and full of dynamic energy, strength and activity. In a few hours one will eat its own weight in earthworms, insects or meat, and be ready for another hearty meal a little later. They sleep or rest by short intervals of an hour or so during the night and day, and eat or search for food between these short naps. They never become fat and are active throughout the year, generally working under the snow in the coldest weather, making long lines of unmistakable tracks over the surface, and then tunneling back to the earth to their regular runways, tunnels and burrows.

It is surprising what friendly advice at the right time has accomplished for many persons.

Burt Van Deusen Wins Notice As Busy Student-Preacher

Under the heading "Student Minister Preaches Way Through College" the Springfield, Mass., Republican, recently carried a featured article, profusely illustrated on the activities of Burt T. Van Deusen of this city, a senior in the Springfield College. Mr. Van Deusen is a son of Herbert T. Van Deusen, master plumber of Hasbrouck avenue.

The article in part says: "When Burt T. Van Deusen, Springfield College senior, accepted an assignment to preach Sunday mornings at the Foster Memorial Church in Sixteen Acres two years ago, he was not stepping into an unknown vocation. Before he matriculated at the local school he had conducted services at the Mombaccus Methodist Church near his home town of Kingston, N. Y. Now in his third year at the suburban church, Mr. Van Deusen is not content to fill the pulpit Sunday mornings and consider his duty done for the week.

"He early recognized the need of organization and through the years he has built up several clubs and groups which give the small parish of 48 members a well-rounded program. To a full schedule of college work he added a round of visitations on Thursdays and found time to promote a 'Friendly Indians' group of the boys between the ages of 8 and 12, meeting on alternate Thursdays after school.

"The Christian Endeavor now has a membership of about 20 young men and women from 14 to 23 and the community men's club serves materially in helping the church prosper.

"How well he has worked and what success the college student has achieved is indicated by attendance records for the year just finished. Of a total membership of 48, the weekly Sunday congregation averaged better than 37, or more than 75 per cent.

"One of the first things Mr. Van Deusen decided should be done was always to have a prepared program for Sunday services. From his first earnings he purchased a second hand mimeograph machine and, cutting the stenils on his own portable typewriter, ran off enough for the congregation.

"As human as he is sincere the Sixteen Acres minister was ready to take time from his heavy schedule of work and drive out Wilbraham road to his church. Though small in size the church building is durably built, and its membership is faithful to the ideal of Christianity as expounded by Mr. Van Deusen.

"Although not regularly ordained the youthful minister is an ardent student of the Bible and has the lore of both the old and new Testaments at tongue tip. His weekly sermons are carefully prepared and range from topical discussions of timely events to interpretations of the life of Jesus.

"Although only 23 years old, Mr. Van Deusen combines his preaching with another job, a combination which is paying his way through college. He is the college correspondent for the Springfield Republican, covering campus life and activity with a thoroughness which has won him praise during his two years' tenure.

"Nor has he neglected his classes, maintaining a better than B average for his four years, which definitely takes him out of the class of the grind and forestalls the stigma of 'just getting by.' He is majoring in social sciences and taking minors in psychology and philosophy, expecting to become affiliated with

Y. M. C. A. work following his graduation this June.

"To most students a full-time job of earning tuition and expenses usually prevents extended extra-curricular activity. Mr. Van Deusen, however, is one of the seven seniors at Springfield College who are this year listed in 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.'

"Students are carefully selected for this honor on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship and their potentiality of future usefulness to business and society.

"At present Mr. Van Deusen is a member of the student council. Last year he was a member of the student senate and also editor of the weekly college newspaper, 'The Student.' Around the campus he is sometimes referred to as 'the committeeman' because of the many committees which he heads.

"Mr. Van Deusen is a graduate of the Kingston High School, and before entering Springfield College was employed at the local Y. M. C. A., and became so interested in 'Y' work that he decided to make it his life's future."

During the summer vacation months Mr. Van Deusen for the past few years has been serving the city as director of recreation in Hasbrouck Park.

Many Official Departments Use U. S. Royals, Says Brown

The superiority of the U. S. Royal Master tire is well attested by the fact that it has been selected by hundreds of police and fire chiefs as the ideal tire for their cars, according to Harris Brown, of Brown's Service, Inc., local U. S. tire dealer.

"In addition," Mr. Brown said, "this U. S. Royal Master may be found on the cars of safety officials in 714 cities. The outstanding feature of the Royal Master, of a new anti-skid principle based on the use of narrow, flexible, de-skidded ribs, which provide the tread with hundreds of cross edges to grip the road, and add to the tire's stopping power."

South Rondout Church Pastor To Attend Important Dinner

The Rev. Richard C. Swogger, pastor of the South Rondout Methodist Episcopal Church, is one of six of the younger preachers about New York city who have been invited to have fellowship dinner in the city with the Rev. Professor Emil Brunner of Zurich, Switzerland. Dr. Brunner is perhaps the outstanding theologian of the Protestant Church on the continent. He is lecturing this year at the Princeton Theological Seminary and is speaking at special Lenten meetings in the Collegiate Church of Saint Nicholas in the city. It has been through the pastor, the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, that the fellowship group has been brought together for this week.

WALKKILL

Walkkill, March 14—Mrs. Frances Cornell, honorary president of the Walkkill Woman's Club, gave an interesting account of her recent trip to Alliance, Nebraska, to visit her sister and also told about her first trip there from Adrian, Michigan, to make her home in 1887, at the club meeting on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Penney. A homestead display was also given by members, Mrs. Jesse McHugh, Mrs. Edmund H. Crane, Mrs. Theresa Marcinkowski, Mrs. Harry Dunn, Mrs. Clarence Merwin, Mrs. Frank Mentz, Mrs. Herman Stauttner, Mrs. George Hammesfahr, Mrs. Eva Hare, Mrs. Harold Titus and Mrs. C. E. Penney, which included crocheted bedspreads and tablecloths, afghans, quilts, and knitted sweaters and suits.

Announcement of a three act play, "Look Who's Here," was made, to be held on April 26, in the community hall. Committees for play are Mrs. Joseph Wendling, director; Mrs. Alfred Bedell, casting; Mrs. Jesse McHugh, stage; Mrs. Addison J. Crowell, prompting; Mrs. Harold Titus, publicity; and Mrs. C. E. Penney, music. The club voted to send a further protest for state taxes and a favorable letter for a revival of the billboard advertising bill. Mrs. Harold Titus also announced that she would meet with Mrs. B. E. Easton and Mrs. H. Van Wagenen, members of the Ulster County Woman's Field Army for the establishment of a cancer control unit in Walkkill as the club representative. Mrs. Harry Dunn was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for the election of officers at the May meeting at the home of Mrs. Herman Stauttner. Others on the committee are: Mrs. Jesse McHugh and Mrs. L. C. Edsall.

Here's a Tropical Nightmare

The camera and Walter Nase, its owner, survived a "peep" at the above monstrosity. Here it looks a bit in a playful mood, but the general advice is if you see one anywhere outside of your dreams to steer clear and don't even risk the second look. This fellow, at least seems to know something about posing and proudly "ups with his chin."

Former Local Man Assigned To Photograph Rare Animal

(By WILTON MARTIN)

Photographing iguanas in their native haunts of Spanish Honduras is about the toughest picture assignment ever undertaken by Walter Nase, newspaper and magazine feature photographer, who is at Silver Springs, Fla., at this time doing special underwater photography. Mr. Nase was formerly of Kingston.

Interviewed by this writer while Nase was busy engaged in some new photographic experiments in a special diving bell at Silver Springs, Nase admitted that his Central American experiences top all photographic adventures in his 30 years as a photographer.

One Narrow Escape

"An iguana is hard enough to photograph under ideal conditions," Nase declared, "and while I had Ross Allen, director of the Reptile Institute at Silver Springs, a most competent handler of reptiles and animals, to tout out the iguanas for me and give me invaluable assistance, I found my hands full, and had one narrow escape in particular."

Pressed for further details, Nase climbed from the underwater tank at Silver Springs and took time out for a breathing spell.

"Allen and I had packed my two trusty Roliflex cameras and a lot of other valuable equipment in a canoe, along with food, camp-ing supplies and other things. Our craft was burdened, with the addition of our two bodies, and we had to use care wherever we paddled."

"Cruising along a river, we searched trees for our elusive subjects. Finally Allen spotted one in a palm leaning over the river's edge and turned around from the bow of the boat."

There's an Iguana

"Get ready Walter—there's an iguana. And I can tell he's in a restless mood. I'll climb up the palm trunk and catch him, if he doesn't jump out."

"Almost instantly Allen pulled the canoe up to the base of the palm, climbed out and 'skinned' up the tree. Our heavily loaded canoe I held, as best I could, below the lean of the palm, so that I could jockey the boat around for a best angle.

"Get set, Walter," Allen shouted down to me. He had reached the fronds on the tree trunk, and the iguana was fixing himself as if ready to spring from the tree.

"Between handling the canoe in a five-mile-an-hour current, and trying to get my two cameras—one with color film and the other loaded with black and white—all set for action, I had my hands full. I was getting my black and white Roliflex ready for action, and wasn't paying much attention to the tree.

"Cracking Sound"

"I heard a cracking sound, Allen shouted 'Look out below!' and instantly I knew something was wrong. The iguana leaped through the air. So did Allen, who dived into the water. He is an expert swimmer and I had no worries about his welfare. But the heavy palm came crashing down smack amidships of our canoe, with the most sickening thud I have ever heard."

"My end of the boat immediately started sinking, and I could see nothing but doom for my equipment, much of which was packed in the front of the canoe."

"I'll try to get that equipment," was the first thought that came to me, because the front of the boat was still out of water, and I was already in water to my knees. I wasn't so zood at football back in school days, but I'm sure the flying tackle I made across that palm tree and onto the equipment in the front of the boat would have cut down the best player in Rose Bowl last winter."

"The equipment, at least most of the better stuff, I hurriedly scooped up in my arms. It was too much of a load, what with the two cameras, a Weston light meter I had swinging around my neck and other items. I was faced, it appeared, with drowning with my equipment, or living without

it. And that is a hard decision for any photographer to make in a hurry.

While Allen Swam

"So I held on and struggled, trading water as best I could. Allen, half laughing at my comical, though sad (to me) plight, swam easily alongside. My head was just ready to bob under, and I had already gotten a taste of the river, which didn't help things."

"Wanna thumb a ride?" joked Allen, perfectly at home in the water.

"The way he said it gave me new assurance, and I confidently gave a few extra kicks, meanwhile feeling his strong arms swing out to me with a mighty shove. Before I had time to orient myself, we were at the river's edge, wading out to the bank."

"Well, there we were. All my cameras had been saved, and somehow I had kept both Roliflexes out of the water. I don't know just how I did it, for all my actions were more or less automatic, like the reflexes of a drowning person."

"Allen swam back in after the canoe, which he jerked from side to side until he freed it of its water. The paddles and other items that would float he soon retrieved with some speedy swimming, and we were as good as new."

And Very Wet

"Yes, our clothes were plenty soaked, but I was happy that most everything was safe. And you know, when it was all over and I regained my balance, we climbed back in the canoe and went right out after and photographed that self same iguana."

"Allen captured him, and two or three others, and we brought them back to our camp. Allen shipped them to his reptile institute at Silver Springs, along with a lot of other specimens."

"But, frankly, I found it a lot more comfortable photographing the bathing beauties on Miami Beach. And incidentally, while there I managed a whopper good photo yarn on J. Edgar Hoover, head of the G-men, and the Miami Beach police, showing how they catch men with criminal records. But personally, I bet they'd rather catch a criminal than an iguana."

'BIRDS ARE WALKING' AT BOSTON AIRPORT

Lay Chairman for Drive of Catholic Charities Here

Two scrolls, on one of which will be listed the names of the parish workers for the 1939 appeal of Catholic Charities, the other to be signed by each contributor, have been distributed to the 370 parishes of the New York archdiocese in preparation for the parish appeal which will be conducted during the week of March 19. Signatures are already being obtained by the special gifts committee, whose names will also be placed on the workers' scroll.

Both of the scrolls will be known as Cardinal Hayes memorial scrolls as a lasting tribute to the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes, who founded Catholic Charities in 1920 and to whose memory this year's appeal has been dedicated by resolution of clergy and laity. When completed the scrolls will be bound and presented to the Archbishop of the New York Archdiocese.

The scrolls, Celtic in design and printed on parchment, have been designed by Joseph Tierney, an outstanding artist, who has conceived a border design in which is incorporated the late cardinal's coat-of-arms, the crozier, also the cross symbol of charity, bearing the words, "Courage and Charity" with a burning heart at its base.

Parish workers will inscribe their names on a scroll which reads: "We, the members of (designated) parish auxiliary, hereon inscribe our name in testimony that we shall lend our efforts in a singular manner to the successful completion of this, the twentieth Catholic Charities appeal."

Contributors in each parish will sign their names on a scroll which reads: "We, the faithful of (designated) parish, have contributed to the continuance of Catholic Charities as a memorial to our late beloved shepherd, Patrick Cardinal Hayes. We loved him in life. We revere him in death. We wish our names to be inscribed hereon in testimony of affection."

The monsignori and pastors, upon invitation of Bishop Stephen J. Donahue, administrator of the archdiocese, are lending prestige to the appeal by their supervision. The active parish directors have been organizing the lay workers in their parishes during the past weeks and all chairmen have now been appointed.

The active lay chairmen for Ulster county, together with their churches are as follows: St. John Evangelist, lower Saugerties, Martin Hull; St. Colman's, East Kingston, Frank Tiano; St. Andrew's, Peter Otens; St. Mary's, Frank Gallagher, Ellenville; St. Joseph's, Frank Campochiaro, Glensco; Holy Name of Jesus, John T. Cogan; Immaculate Conception, Frank Zabrozewski, and Frank Jaklonski; St. Joseph's, Miss Theresa Brophy; St. Mary's, William C. Jussery; and St. Peter's, Louis Stock, all of Kingston.

St. Mary's, Marlborough, C. S. McCourt; St. James, Milton, Michael Conroy; St. Joseph's, New Palz, Thomas DiLorenzo; Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Port Ewen, Richard Donnelly; St. Peter's, Rosendale, John Winter; St. Mary's, Saugerties, William Keenan; St. Ann's, Sawkill, Edward Leahy; St. John's, West Hurley, Jeremiah Kelficher.

NEW PALZ

New Palz, March 13—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Glanz expect to be home by Sunday after spending a few weeks in Florida.

Mrs. Edna O'Brien, who is chairman of Ulster county, attended a meeting and luncheon of the Ladies' Division of Catholic Charities at the Empire State Club last week. Saturday she attended the bishop's dinner at Hotel Astor.

Dorothy Glineman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glineman, recently underwent an operation for mastoids at the Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Warner G. White and son, Geoffrey, have been spending several days in New York. Tuesday evening they attended the broadcast of "Information Please" at studio WJZ. They also saw the two Broadway plays, "Abraham Lincoln" and "The American Way." They returned on Thursday.

S. McKean Kavan and Ralph Johnson of New Palz have charge of the entertainment, following the meeting of the Adonia Lodge, E. and A. M., Monday evening in Masonic Hall. Master Jacob J. Donovan will preside at Highland.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McCormick were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty of Poughkeepsie in celebration of Mr. Beatty's birthday on Sunday.

Mr. Beatty's birthday on Sunday.

The Rev. John W. Follette has returned from a successful speaking trip. Mr. Follette was away for a month. He spoke in Chicago and Gary, South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind. While in South Bend he visited Notre Dame University and the cathedral, stadium and art gallery, etc. In Indianapolis he visited the Scottish Rites Cathedral. He also visited the World Memorial Building. This is the finest state memorial building in the union.

Adelaide Dearnly celebrated her fifth birthday Wednesday by entertaining a number of her young friends at her home on lower Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert LeFevre entertained their daughter, Mrs. Elbel Keenan, of Newark, N. J., over the week-end.

Mrs. Howard B. Hollman of South Oakwood Terrace entertained in celebration of her son, Joseph's birthday, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lee DuBois and daughter, Joanne, and Miss Cornelia DuBois started Wednesday for Miami, Fla., where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. DuBois.

Dr. Jonathan T. Male, formerly of New Palz, who has been ill at a Denver hospital since November, is now up and around. The family expects to stay in Denver to the end of March.

MECHANICAL HECKLER

Many of the important inventions of the future will come from the great laboratories devoted to research along specific industrial, chemical, medical and other lines. Fortunately, however, not all American inventive genius is so controlled. If it were, we would not have the yearly gatherings of the National Inventors' Congress with their fascinating display of gadgets to make life smoother—and merrier.

At the recent Congress in Oklahoma City, for example, there were presented a patent cow-tail-holder to prevent the gentle cow from switching out the milker's eye, and an anti-cow-kicker to prevent her from substituting a foot for a tail in the work of shooing off flies. Used together, it is easy to see, these two articles would revolutionize one branch of farming.

A gentleman from the Pacific Coast held up for the approval of his fellows "a clown-faced gadget that sticks out its tongue and emits a hearty Bronx cheer" when properly manipulated. Its inventor had in mind particularly the needs of motorists annoyed by the terrible driving of other motorists, but the automatic jeerer could have infinitely more uses. Perhaps, however, it's a good thing Dorothy Thompson didn't have such an aid to hecklers at that Bund meeting.

DECENT FAIRS

It seems to be an open question whether the World's Fairs animating both ends of the country this year should concentrate on the fair sex, or on other exhibits. Grover Whalen, head of the New York enterprise, seems excited by some of the excesses of the publicity men, and tries to calm judicious customers with this assurance:

"Of course we will have amusement and entertainment in plenty, but it will be secondary. All this rubbish about sex displays at our fair is in violent opposition to our hopes and plans. We have gathered together $153,000,000 worth of the rarest gems of science, business, industry, literature, art and the like. Now if the success or failure of all that painstaking labor depends on a girl's bare skin, I for one can see little hope for mankind in the city of tomorrow."

Well, the worried Mr. Whalen isn't the only one who finds it hard to hope for the full flowering that our city civilizations might attain, if it were not for the vulgar displays, peep-shows, and so on, that usually disgrace our American expositions.

Surely such things of questionable taste and morals are unnecessary. Normal Americans, who make up the majority of patrons at any public exposition, certainly prefer decency to obscenity. There must be enough of such families to make decency pay.

MILITARISM AND POVERTY

It is probably true, as Hitler said lately, that "the German people must export or die." That is, if it is assumed that they are going to continue applying about two-thirds of their economic resources to military purposes instead of normal production and consumption.

As matters stand, Germany seems forced to dump on the foreign market large quantities of goods, at almost any price, to get foreign exchange with which to buy materials for armament. That leaves bare essentials for domestic consumption.

If the Germans were free to engage in normal production, instead of exhausting their economic power on armament, they could produce and distribute at home far more of the essentials of civilized life than they are getting now. Also, if they were engaged in peaceful industry instead of war industry, neighbors near and far would have their military expenses lessened and their buying power increased, so that they could take and pay for more of Germany's exports.

It is this huge, frantic concentration on war activities instead of peace activities that is making so many countries poor and ill-nourished, and hurting the so-called military powers themselves most of all.

EUROPEAN TRAVEL

American travel tides have turned in new directions, toward Mexico and South America in particular, but there are still many of us who keep Europe on our itinerary. Pierre

Van Paassen, the Holland-born author of a distinguished book on the modern world, has a few words of advice for the Europe-bound. "I would advise reticence on politics and moderate use of cameras abroad," he says. "The prospective tourist should know in advance all he can glean about the political situation, sociology and economics abroad. Otherwise he would be missing more than half the interest in a European tour. But it would be well for his own peace of mind and bodily security to withhold opinion on facts, trends and the American example. Silence on these heads is not only a personal safeguard; frankness, either complimentary or critical, doesn't increase international amity."

American travelers have never been noted for reticence, but perhaps those who go to Europe in these troubled times, wondering whether they'll get home again without running into a war, will be cautious.

Mr. Van Paassen makes another interesting statement. The American traveler is still more than welcome in every country. They need trade with us, and sight-seeing is about the only thing we're willing to buy much of.

A winter resident of St. Petersburg, Fla., has been threatening a stand-up strike if the city doesn't put cushions on the public benches.

It's natural, perhaps, that Mexico wants to keep her oil; but suppose we decided to keep our tourists.

Don't we need a few more holidays, to figure out our tax returns?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. GALL STONES AND COLIC

Of a series of 836 cases of gall bladder disease during 1925 to 1936 at University Hospital, Omaha, Nebraska, Drs. J. D. Bisgard and R. S. Dornberger found that 814 cases were due to inflammation; only 22 were caused by cancer. They report their results in the Nebraska Medical Journal.

Of the 814 cases, free of cancer, 518 underwent operation and 266 were put on a diet and medicine. Of those undergoing operation which was found necessary owing to the severe and dangerous symptoms, about one in twenty died.

The results obtained in those whose gall bladders contained stones were very good and were considerably better than those in the group with no stones in the bladder. In those with stones in the gall bladder, 75 per cent considered themselves well and 96 per cent were well or much improved after operation. In those without stones, 60 per cent considered themselves well and 87 per cent were well or much improved after operation.

The fact that where stones were present the results of operation were better than where stones were not present should greatly relieve the minds of those who, because of the presence of stones in the gall bladder, have been thinking that the stones lessened their chances of a cure.

Another finding by Drs. Bisgard and Dornberger was that in the cases in which attacks of colic were the outstanding symptom, the results of operation showed that the percentage of cures and improvements was much higher in the cases suffering with colic than in the cases where there were no attacks of colic. This fact was found to be true in all cases whether gall bladder was normal or contained stones.

What, then, do the above findings mean to sufferers with gall bladder disturbances? They mean that the more pronounced the condition—the presence of stones and attacks of colic—the better are the chances of cure and relief of symptoms by operation as discovered by a follow-up of 431 of the above cases which underwent operation.

Reports from 83 of the 266 cases treated by diet and medicine showed relief of symptoms in only 20 per cent.

If you have stones and colic and your physician advises operation, the above figures should be comforting.

Payroll Tax Has Done More to Unsettle Business Conditions Than Any Other Factor
By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, March 14.—Relief from the burdens of taxation has become one of the central points of the present drive to bring about economic recovery. For a long time this subject has been confused with the question of "soaking the rich." Today the inequitable taxation is being discovered to be a direct cause of unemployment, especially in its devastating effects on small businesses.

The biggest single factor in present-day business conditions is the payroll tax. Adopted for benevolent purposes, it has done more to unsettle business conditions than any other single factor in the last three years. The business recession which began in the summer of 1927 and from which the nation has not yet recovered happens to be coincident with the imposition of the heaviest payroll taxes.

Today American business and industry is paying as its share of the payroll taxes as much as was paid in 1929 for corporation taxes. In other words, the tax burden on business today is double what it was at the time of the nation's biggest national income and prosperity.

In the mails almost every week come letters to Washington protesting against the payroll taxes. Here, for instance, is one from a midwestern city where a survey was made of eight photographing plants by the secretary of a trade association, who writes:

"I thought you might be interested in the way the unemployment compensation rates of the social security law are not only hindering recovery in this industry, but are actually causing unemployment and loss. Realizing that mere statistics are not conclusive, I am going to give you some facts and figures which show more clearly than words just how the social security laws are ruining our business."

"I recently took a survey of eight photo-engraving plants in our city to see whether the complaints against this law were justified. These eight plants in 1938 did a combined gross business of $505,329.38. During 1938 their assessments for old age coverage was $2,946.98, and for unemployment insurance $10,100.18, making a total for social security taxes of $13,047.16.

"As you see, these taxes were just a little over 2 1/2 per cent of sales, and cost the various firms just about as much as the rent on their plants. I also discovered to my amazement that these eight small businesses had paid a total of $27,273.13 in social security taxes since the law has been in effect. When you consider the staggering proportions of these taxes and realize that they are but a part of the general tax burden on industry, which is

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 83—New Champion
Launched on the Connecticut river and used there for a short time, the steamboat "New Champion," later saw service during the Civil War and then appeared on the Hudson river where she served until the end of her days, going to the bottom of the river while carrying a cargo of coal.

The "New Champion" was built in 1832, her hull being constructed at Jersey City at her engine built at the West Point Foundry on the Hudson. She boasted a cylinder diameter of 41 inches with a nine foot stroke.

At the beginning of her career the "New Champion" plied the waters of the Connecticut river in service on short routes. A bit later she appeared on Long Island Sound, running on a regular route between New York and Hartford as a passenger and freight hauler.

The spring of 1875 marked the withdrawal of the "Thomas Powell" and the "Sunnyside" from this route, and during the following years, until 1874, the "New Champion" and a propeller steamboat named the "Andrew Harder," formed a line which used Catskill as a landing point. During the years of 1875, 1876, and 1877, the "New Champion" and the "Walter Brett" ran in line from Catskill to New York.

The "New Champion" was showing visible signs of the wear and tear of 35 years of service, and in the fall of 1877 she was abandoned. Her engine was placed in the new steamboat "Monie Cornell" and her hull was converted into a coal barge which was later sunk off New Hamburg while carrying a load of coal.

Port Ewen, March 14.—Mr. and Mrs. John Groves, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Craft of Kingston, motored to Ithaca for the week-end. They visited their daughters who are students at Ithaca College.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Small motored to New York Saturday.

Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth and Mrs. Cyril Small attended the meeting of the Kingston Child Study Club last evening at the home of Mr. Clifford Rose in Kingston.

Mrs. Lynn's Sunday School class will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Kelly on the evening of March 16. Miss Doyle's class is invited to meet with them. They will meet at Mrs. Lynn's at 7:30 o'clock for transportation.

The Missionary Society of the Reformed Church is serving a supper Saturday evening at 6 o'clock in the church house in honor of the Rev. John D. Murskens, a nephew of the former pastor of the church. Mr. Murskens is one of the Reformed missionaries in India. After the supper he will talk informally about the work in India. Reservations for the supper must be made with Mrs. George Berens not later than Wednesday.

Due to the ill health of Mrs. Beesmer, the Reformed Junior choir will not meet until further notice.

Chapter Eight

Going Into A Huddle

"WHERE are the rest?" Jane had passed the stage of flippant depression, and was now resigned and nearly normal except for the redness of her eyes.

"What rest?"

"Oh, police and all. Coroners, and reporters and things like that."

"Doc's medical examiner for this part of the world," Ases said.
"We're the town, and the law, and
I'm acting head of the police here.
Lane's the state outfit. Don't need more, unless you want it to be fancy. Lane's a detective. He's done what you might call the needful Say, when is Eloise due?"

"She should have been home
long ago," Jane said. "It's awfully late for her. You don't suppose—but then nothing could happen to
her. She's with Prettyman."

"She's stuck on the ferris wheel," Weston said. "Speaking for the first time in twenty minutes. Top seat, with Ter-
tus. No ladders to reach, and she said she wouldn't crawl down one anyway. Neither would Mrs. Cummings. She's just below, with Bessie Brinley. The rest were all kids, and they managed to wriggle down somehow. Oh, I knew something would happen! I knew, it was bound to. I knew it would!"

"What would happen," Jane interrupted, "if we didn't let anyone else know?"

"Why, we've got to!" Weston said. "Haven't we, Ases? How could we keep it quiet? We can't."
"You're the town," Jane said,
"and you know. Your police chief knows. The state cops and the coroner, or whatever you call him,
they all know. And Zeb and I, Eloise'll have to, but why any more? Why can't we keep it a secret until after the week is over?
It's all so horrible, and letting people know will be even more horrible."

"We can't," Weston said.
"There's the funeral, and the undertaker, and the mess of that room.
All sorts of things. How'd you explain about Mrs. Randall's not being around? How could—oh, it's just impossible. It can't be done."

"Wait now," Jane said. "I hear the beach wagon coming up the drive. Eloise—she probably took Prettyman home. I thought I heard it going past a few minutes ago."

Ases watched the door expectantly. This Eloise had been mentioned any number of times, but people had shied away from personal description. U. S. A. Ily that most someone was cupped and outlined. Perhaps she had a wart on her nose, or was minus an eye.
He didn't even know if she were in her twenties, like Jane, or if she were in her forties.

Forties. He almost said it out loud as she entered. Middle forties, stoutish, reddish brown hair beginning to show streaks of grey.
Nothing the matter with her that he could see; she had the proper number of eyes and ears and arms and legs.

"She looked from one to another
in the group."

"Why, Jane! I didn't know that you planned—I mean, I didn't hear you say anything about a party! I m sure Tertius was cupped and preferred—so very distressing—on that wheel. You know I'm always glad to help. Always Sandwiches, or even a cake. I'm sure there's no necessity for your making any secret of your parties, my dear—teh, ten!" she clucked her tongue. "And that coffee pot, right on the rug!"

'Loose Association'

SHE put her hat on the table, and somehow managed to knock off
two books, an ash tray and a lamp
in the process.

"I'll fix em," Zeb said. He was watching Ases out of the corner of his eye.

"Very nice of you. I'm sure—won't the rest of you gentlemen sit —oh, Mr. Mayo. I'm so glad you're here—I think it's only fair to tell you that the ferris wheel—really, the things those men who owned it said! So very unsafe—why, Dr. Cummings' Your wife is so very distressed; She couldn't find you—"

"She'll survive," Cummings said
brusquely. "Ases, you tell her—no, on second thought, I will. The rest of you go into the kitchen, or somewhere."

"What?"

"The doctors," Zeb said, "call it
loose association, if you mean Eloise. Tell me, is there any chance of keeping this reasonably quiet for a while?"

"D'pends on Eloise. Tell me, do they keep any servants here?"
"Only Lina for washing and ironing. I think she comes a couple of days a week. Eloise and Jane do most of the housework between them—what did you say?"
"I said," Ases informed him,
"I'd hate to have to make a Lady Baltimore cake with Eloise at my elbow. I'd end up with mint sauce.
On the other hand, I wonder what kind of a cook she'd be—oh, Doc's back. He got through it quicker than I thought he would. What's the verdict?"

Cummings wiped the perspiration from his forehead. "It was easier than I hoped for. She took it very well. Feels badly, of course, but—she wants to see Jane."

"Really," Cummings added as Jane went back into the living room. "I hand it to Eloise. I was all set for some first-class hysterics, but she rose to the occasion like a lady. You have never seen hysterics until you've seen what Eloise can do along that line. Well, maybe we can swing it. Ases!"
In a few minutes Eloise called to them.

"Will you come in here? Jane,
you tell them what we have decided—although I'm sure I can't help feeling that there's something very wrong about it, but of course if you and the rest feel that—I suppose the majority always knows—tell them, Jane."

"Mary loves the town," Jane said. "I think that matters tremendously. So does Eloise. Mary would have hated to think that because of this awful thing happening to her, and us, and all, that the town should suffer the way it will if this is all made public right away. It's an awful thing. A terrible thing.
We're going to find out who did it.
But we think it can be kept quiet
until next week, why shouldn't it?
After all, everyone knows who's supposed to know."

'It Gets Complicated'

"BUT I don't see how we can!"
Weston said. "How can we,
Ases? We can't, can we, doc? Lane,
what do you think?"

Ases picked up a pad and pencil
from a desk.

"Let's go into a huddle," he said.
"Let's see. Put of all, I can fix up the window and the shade so they won't be noticed. We can fix the room itself and lock it up. Now,
Wes, you can make a note of Mrs.
Randall's death in the town records, but do you have to tell?"

"In the town report, it—"
"And the town report comes out once a year. In other words, note it, but don't tell till you have to.
Don't even put the notation where anyone might see it!"

"I don't."
"All right, then enter it and put your book in the bank vault. That's that. Now, Cummings, you can manage the death certificate and an undertaker, can't you? Haven't you some relative who's an undertaker?"

"Well, he calls himself a mortici-an," Cummings said, "but he loves me for his last two children
and his appendix."

"All right, Doc, you an' Lane'll have to go to him tonight, in the beach wagon, an' leave the car there. I'll—no, Zeb will follow, and bring your wife, doc, or shall I?"

"Okay, I'll see to it, an' I'll drive to Weston an' phone Porter in New York. He'll be him phone back here to Jane."

"Why?" Jane asked.
"He'll pretend to be a cousin, an'
say Mrs. Randall must go to New York 'cause of serious illness in the family. A telegram won't do.
It would be phoned here from Hyannis tonight, an' I want the phone girls here to know about it direct.
Help spread the news. Anyway,
I got to appear that Mrs. Randall's gone to New York, drivin'
alone in the beach wagon."

"This is a charming house," Eloise said timidly, "of course as I always said to our friends, lovely pavelling, fine lines and all, but—well, I mean, it's just a wee, wee bit—"

"Remote," Ases finished for her.
"I thought of that. You an' Jane had best go to Sara's. Day times you can come back an' carry on,
but nights you got to stay. You can explain it by sayin' that you want to be near the celebration at night, an' haven't any car. Everyone knows that keepin' you would be like Aunt Sara—"

"There," Weston said, "see? Then Sara'll have to know. And Jeff,
too. You see, you can't keep it quiet. It gets complicated right off the bat."

"Sara already knows a lot. Wes,
She and Jeff are safe, anyway.
Now, let's make a stab at this, an'
see how long we can hold out for Billingsgate's budget. Lane an' doc an' Wes an' I will go to work."

"But I've got Old Home Week!"
Weston protested. "I've got—"
"You got it like a rash," Ases
retorted. "Well, you got an' Old Home Week, an' we'll get started.
I'll use some of Lane's men. I know most of em. Now, we'll get into the g'fals, an' get our stories fixed, an'
get to work."

Continued tomorrow.

Influence of Bible On Art Topic of 20th Century Club

"The Influence of the Bible on British and American Art" and "The Influence of the Bible on European Art" were the topics discussed at the regular meeting of the Twentieth Century Club yesterday at the home of Mrs. E. O. Allen, St. James street. The first paper was presented by Mrs. Harry B. Walker who traced definite scenes and events in the Bible along the branches of American art. Christ she said is the greatest inspiration to most artists. As examples she pointed out the stained glass and large murals found in most churches and in the leading art galleries. Three great artists who were inspired by the Bible were William Blake of England, George Inness of Ellenville and John Vanderlyn of Kingston. In closing Mrs. Walker read a quotation of Manah Moore, English novelist, to Sir Joshua Reynolds, a great eighteenth century English painter. "I hope the poets and painters will at last bring the Bible in fashion and that people will get to like it from time to time, though they are insensible to its spirit and afraid of its doctrines."

Mrs. B. C. Van Ingen presented the second paper and took the club on an imaginary tour of the famous art galleries and cathedrals of Europe; the Cologne, Milan, St. Peters at Rome and Florence, the mother of all arts who has sent 20 million dollars worth of art to the San Francisco World's Fair. One of the things that impressed Mrs. Van Ingen was the fact that there were so many treatments of the same theme.

At the business meeting that preceded the reading of the papers two resolutions were adopted. The first protested the proposed sales tax and the second upheld the bill which will control the placing of billboards. Mrs. George N. Wood announced that the subject for the next meeting would be "Literature and Fine Arts." During the roll call Mrs. Robert Sisson told briefly of the State of Minnesota and Mrs. J. C. Fraser presented New York state.

Olympian Club

The Olympian Club met last night at the home of Mrs. A. L. Brown, 27 Furnace street, and the regular program was followed with papers by members of the club. Miss Sadie Schutt read "Robber Tides," dealing with the Arabians; Mrs. Arthur Cragin gave "The Pearl Industry" and Mrs. Everett Schutt read "Bagdad, City of Arabian Knights." Mrs. Lester Decker, "An Unbeliever Joins the Hadji," "Pilgrims Progress to Mecca," was read by Miss Anna McCullough. There was a social hour and refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mary Hale, on Orchard street, March 20.

M. E. Conference

The fourth quarterly conference of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church convenes Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at which time all members and friends of the church are invited to be present to hear the special Lenten message by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Chasey, district superintendent.

Friendship Tea At Y.W.C.A. Thursday

The Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring a Friendship Tea and program, Thursday, March 16, at 2:30 p. m., to which all the members and friends of the organization are invited.

Mrs. Theron Culver, chairman of the committee on education, is arranging the program which will consist of harp solos by Miss Helen Sheldon, and readings by Mrs. Ellis T. Bookwalter. Mrs. M. Donald Lane, chairman of the hospitality committee, is in charge of arrangements for the tea.

Mrs. A. Noble Graham, president of the board of directors, will greet the guests, assisted by Mrs. G. N. Wood, Mrs. Frederick Holcomb, and Mrs. Harry Walker, who will pour.

Although so far as possible, invitations have been issued to all who might be interested, the committee hopes that anyone whose name may have been inadvertently overlooked, will feel free to come and enjoy this all-member event.

W. C. T. U. March Meeting

The March meeting of the Kingston Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in the parlor of St. James Church. The devotional period will be conducted by Mrs. Joseph Chasey.

The program will be presented by Miss Anna Avery and will be built around the Union Signal, the official national paper. All members who haven't paid their dues are urged to do so at this meeting. Friends and the public generally are invited.

St. Patrick's Dance

One of the outstanding St. Patrick's Day dances on the calendar for the week-end will be the annual formal dance by the P. T. A. of School No. 7, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday evening at 9 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Bob Steudling's orchestra. The committee arranging for the dance is as follows: The Misses Louise Helzsohn and Margaret Falvey, co-chairmen; Mrs. Reynolds Carr, Mrs. Arthur Colligan, Mrs. J. Spottiswood Taylor, Mrs. Clifford Smith, Mrs. William Leonard and Mrs. Carl A. Weber. Tickets may be secured from any member of the committee.

Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower was given Miss Elizabeth Egan Saturday evening, in honor of her approaching marriage, by Miss Theresa Lloyd of West Chester street. Those present were: Mrs. Albert Flanagan, Mrs. Frank Egan, Mrs. Patrick J. Lloyd, Mrs. Edward Wortman, Mrs. Victor Ruzzo, Mrs. Eugene Macauliffe, and the Misses Jean Rifenbary, Florence Knetsch, Mary Quigley, Sally Gallagher, Gertrude Wynn, Mary Lloyd, Katherine Lloyd and Nan Lloyd.

Hostesses at Tea

Two teas for Benedictine ball committees were held recently. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Thomas Goldrick entertained the members of the flower committee at tea in her home. Those present were: Mrs. Victor Ruzzo, Mrs. Thomas Crowley, Mrs. William Weisling, Mrs. Henry Bruck and Mrs. Marie Kilpatrick.

Honored on Birthday

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schramme of 69 Lounsberry Place entertained Miss Jeanne Mohaux, Miss Betty Schramme, Miss Kay Honeberry, James Connolly, Paul Yocan and Alfred Townsend at a dinner party in honor of Miss Schramme's birthday.

Easter Dawn Service

The young people of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church are planning to sponsor an Easter Dawn service at an early hour, Sunday morning. Young people from other churches, where no such service will be held, as well as the public at large, are invited to attend at this sunrise service in the church at Wurts and Hunter streets.

Honored at R. P. I.

Eric F. Fuegel of Kingston has been formally initiated a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, where he is a student in the electrical engineering course. He is the son of Mrs. Helen Fuegel of 455 Albany avenue, and a graduate of Kingston High School.

Beck-Basch

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Basch of 61 Ann street announce the marriage of their daughter, Sophie, to Samuel Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Beck, 576 Broadway. The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. Koplowitz in Albany, N. Y., Sunday afternoon.

Suppers-Food Sales

The Ladies' Aid of Esopus will serve a turkey supper March 17.

A baked ham-salmon supper will be served at the Fair Street Reformed Church Wednesday, March 15.

A St. Patrick's Day supper

and dance will be held at St. Peter's hall, Rosendale, Friday evening, March 17. Supper will be served at 5:30 o'clock.

Study of Arabia Concluded at Meeting Of Olympian Club

Mrs. Charles Nickerson was hostess last night to the Olympian Club at their postponed meeting. The study of Arabia was concluded at this meeting with a discussion of the robber tribes that roam the country. The discussion was led by Miss Sadie Schutt, and Mrs. Arthur Cragin discussed the pearl industry later in the evening.

Three readings were also given during the meeting; Mrs. Everett Schutt presented a reading on the city of Ispahan and two pilgrimages were reviewed: "An Unbeliever Joins the Hadji," read by Mrs. Decker and "Pilgrims Progress to Mecca," by Miss Anna McCullough.

Personal Notes

Of interest to friends in Kingston was the confirmation of Clifford John Smead by Bishop Ashton Oldham at Trinity Episcopal Church, Watervliet, N. Y., last Friday night. Clifford is the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clifford Smead of that city and grandson of Mrs. Herman Wurth of Albany avenue extension. Mrs. Smead was formerly Miss Gladys Reynolds of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Coons of Downs street attended the New Paltz State Normal School Alumni Association luncheon held at the Waldorf Astoria, New York city, on Saturday. Mrs. Coons is a member of the association.

A daughter, Patricia Ann, was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Phalen of 148 Fair street at the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Ellis of Margaretville were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Russell at their home, 83 Brewster street, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Stanley Matthews of Lounsberry Place was the guest last week of Mrs. Ida Asbury of New York city. Friday she was joined by Mr. Matthews.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Joyce, with their children, Walter, Jr., and Richard, spent Saturday in New York city. While in New York, Mrs. Joyce and Walter, Jr., attended the performance of "Rigoletto" at the Metropolitan.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Russell entertained three guests in their home on Brewster street. They were Mr. Russell's brother, James H. Russell, of Livingston Manor, and niece, Mrs. Wendall Straight of Massena, N. Y., and William Sliter, of Livingston Manor.

Harry Wilber Honored

Canton, March 14.—Harry Wilber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wilber, 151 Wrentham street, Kingston, was pledged recently to Alpha Omicron of Alpha Tau Omega, national social fraternity at St. Lawrence University.

Your Baffling Dream May Be a Warning

Learn the Truth Behind Dreams

Such a frightening dream Janet is having! Two roads lie before her but as she chooses one she finds her legs are paralyzed, she can't move from the spot.

She may try to laugh it off

later but actually this dream is a warning from her unconscious mind. Her fear of poverty, it tells her, paralyzes her affections, keeps her from marrying. Bob as her heart really desires. Root out these secret fears, face life courageously in her dream's message.

The strange dreams we all have are full of clues to real problems. Asleep our minds work on—mulling over suppressed desires, emotions that we won't let ourselves think about when awake.

You dream you're flying lightly through space? Perhaps in real life you have wearisome duties. You yearn secretly for a wider, freer life. Wild animals appear in your dream? You're struggling against untidy emotions.

Psychologists have found certain symbols recur in every one's dream—a burning house, a screen, water. Learn to read their meanings, the significance of many other symbols. In our 32-page booklet, a well-known psychologist tells how to interpret your dreams, get clues to vital problems.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of THE MEANING OF DREAMS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 655 Sixth Ave., N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Parent-Teacher Association

The Hurley Parent-Teacher Association will meet Friday at 3 p. m. in the town hall. There will be a spider web social.

This & That: Popular meeting places in midtown are Grand Central information booth, the Astor lobby and in front of the Paramount building. . . . Downtown, in front of the Stock Exchange, Trinity church, No. 1 Wall street, and the George Washington statue. . . . Uptown, Grant's tomb, various entrances to Central park and streets along Riverside drive. . . . Lisa Vaile defines pedestrians as persons usually found in front of automobiles. . . . A magazine article stated that there was an Enoch Light who is a member of Father Divine's cult. . . . Which caused the band leader at the Taft no end of worry. . . . Despite the fact that the two Enoch Lights were differentiated in a broadcast over a national hookup. . . . Doris Rhodes took vocal lessons from a teacher who knew how to teach singing. . . . But it was otherwise with his advertising. . . . His window sign read: "You are never too old to start a career in music. Enroll now. Special pains given to beginners."

Continuing: Peter Van Steeden says the English spell humor, h-u-m-o-u-r because, having less of it, they make more of it. . . . Burns are not allowed to enter California, reports Ben Bernie, unless they have movie contracts. . . . and Alice Frost says that when Hollywood couple marry nowadays the first thing they have is a little divorce. . . . New knowledge: Front bumpers were offered on a number of automobiles as early as 1906 as "optional equipment". . . . and in 1907 the automotive industry used 70,000,000 square feet of laminated safety glass. . . . Kay Kysar received this ad from a laundry last week: "Why kill your wife? Let us do the dirty work for you". . . . Pitchmen fear the Forty-second Street association more than they do the police. . . . The association has means of its own to enforce orders.

Still more: Somebody forgot to buy whipped cream, which since "Victoria Regina" opened three years ago, has been used as lather in the shaving scene. . . . and so Werner Bateman, the Prince Albert of the play, used real lather. . . . and found it worked better than the imitation. . . . Joan Edwards, soloist with Paul White-man's orchestra, stopped suddenly before a cut-rate shop that sells recordings. She was listening to her own voice. . . . and Toscanini, the eminent, shook his head sadly as he listened to modern swing played by a Rockefeller Center phonograph shop.

Additional: Backstage of an important musical the other afternoon, a director was explaining his woes when he was interrupted by a sweet young thing who announced she was a stage aspirant. . . . "I've got enough headaches now!" yelled the director. "I don't want aspirants, I want aspirin!" . . . Jerry Cooper takes candid camera pictures of friends and gives them the prints. . . . He holds they help correct bad habits such as nail biting, slumping in chairs, etc. . . . Butch, the official Winter Garden cat, became the mother of two bouncing kittens recently. . . . Libby Holman, of "You Never Know," has adopted them.

Manhattan Miracles: Old women juggling heavy baskets of pretzels on their heads. . . . Blasters who stand 30 feet away from dynamite explosions without holding their ears. . . . Cops who stand in the midst of speeding traffic without batting an eye. . . . Crowds and crowds of people without a smile to be seen. . . . Subway riders who suffer every known inconvenience from overcrowding yet never complain. . . . Health faddists who walk around in shirt sleeves in the cold.

Finish: Gertrude Berg knows a young physician who asks each patient a long list of questions as to what he eats. . . . It doesn't help him in the diagnosis. . . . But does help him in fixing his fee. . . . Frank Novak heard a man threatening an actor that unless he paid up, he'd turn off the gas. . . . He wasn't a public utility employee but a press agent. . . . and I guess I'd better write THE END.

Swimming Motion Found

Way to Fight Snowslide WINNIPEG, MAN.—If you find yourself engulfed in a snowslide just swim for all you are worth. That is the advice of R. B. Miller, of Jasper, Alta. He said it's the only chance in the world you have to survive.

"If you swim—just as if you were in water—you may keep yourself near the surface of the snow, which rolls over you in waves, all the time forcing you under. By swimming you may end up near the top when 'slide stops'."

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health: Mr. and Mrs. George Waterman of 12 South Clinton avenue, a daughter, Barbara Ann. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Newkirk of 156 Prospect street, a daughter, Sandra Emma.

Lions Club Hears Of 'Railroading'

Model Railroading was the topic of a talk given Monday evening before the Kingston Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel by Henry P. Elghmey, a member of the local Model Railroad "hobby" club. Mr. Elghmey explained the development of this hobby from its beginning in England to the present time when model railroad clubs are to be found in many cities of the country.

His talk was illustrated with models, which were on display. Showing Hudson type locomotive of the 4-4 type, a refrigerator car built from a kit, a home made box car and several magazines used by model railroaders, he outlined to his audience the manner in which these miniatures are built according to scale to accurately represent the actual rolling stock.

A collection of brass pieces which can be purchased and a drawing of the new insignia of the "Hudson Valley Lines," similar to that of the New York Central Lines, was presented to show how accurately the model engineers copy the real article.

Members of the Lions Club were invited to attend the "open house" meetings of the Kingston Model Railroad Club on Thursday evenings. There, Mr. Elghmey told his audience, the spectator will find a replica of the Hudson valley along the shores of the river are the tracks of the model railroad with scenes painted as a background and various reproductions of sections of the New York Central system, including a scene at Rhinecliff.

A report was made on the work being done toward concerts to be given by the Lions Club band in the near future. No date for the concerts has been set.

Lloyd Anderson made a report on the recent get-together given by the club for the blind folks of this area and said the next similar affair had been set for Monday, March 27. At these affairs the blind folks of the locality are invited to attend the meeting and have the opportunity to meet and associate with other blind residents of the area. Entertainment is provided and a general get-together session held.

Townsend Club Challenges

Head of Social Security

The Kingston Townsend Club program committee has challenged the local Social Security Administrator, Arthur Lacey to debate the following: "Resolved, that the Social Security Plan of the government is a painfully inadequate for the present and future needs of the aged and the unemployed in our country," and further "that the Townsend National Recovery Plan is the only practical solution of these two problems."

If this challenge is accepted, Charles D. Clinton and Dr. Carr Miller will probably represent the Townsend Club in the debate, which will be held at some regular meeting of the Townsend Club in the near future.

Cicada Falsely Accused

As Destroyer of Crops

For centuries the cicada has been falsely accused of destroying field crops. It was once considered poisonous in some mysterious way, a forerunner of war, and a bad omen generally. Some confuse the periodical cicada with the locusts that ate up Pharaoh's crops. Cicadas are not locusts. The term locust applies to grasshoppers, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

Cicadas do not cause any damage by feeding on crops, but they injure trees by puncturing the twigs and laying masses of eggs inside, states an entomologist. These punctures often cause the tips of the branches to die. Twigs from six inches to two feet long will break off and fall to the ground.

The sudden appearance of the cicada often excites the gravest fear for the safety of trees and shrubs. There is some ground for this, especially if they appear in large numbers.

There are two races of cicadas—the 17 year and the 13 year. When broods of both races appear in the same year the insects are especially numerous. The biggest broods of the two races—No. 10 of the 17 year race and No. 19 of the 13 year race—appeared simultaneously in 1868. But scientists have figured it out that they will not appear together again until 221 years from that date, or to be specific, in 2089 A. D.

In describing the life history of the cicada, entomologists say that antlike larvae come from the eggs a few weeks after they are laid within twigs of trees. The larvae fall to the ground and quickly burrow out of sight.

Union's Attempt Expected in City

Although rumors had reached the Kingston police department this morning that there was apt to be labor trouble this noon at the Excelsior dress factory in the Brown Servicer building, Broadway, no trouble was reported by the police officers who had been assigned to cruise through the central business district.

It was reported that several labor organizers from New York City were seen in the vicinity of the Servicer building, but there was no trouble of any kind. The employees at the plant were out as usual during the lunch hour, and then returned to work. What union the labor organizers represented was not ascertained by the police.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers for several weeks have been trying to induce the employees of the Fuller Shirt factory to join the union, but there has been no disorder. It is also reported that efforts are being made to induce employees of the dress plants in the central business section of the city to become members of the union.

Many Entrants Are Listed For Craftsman Radio Show

Chairman Zucca, in charge of the program for the coming radio show to be given by the Craftsman's Club of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., Monday, March 20, says that already he has received numerous entries for the amateur hour. Among those already accepted are:

Dancing—The Weyhe Studios—Dancing and singing by the Weyhe brothers, "The Dancing Doll," by Elizabeth French, six, "Toy Room Soldier," by Julia Verigan, six.

Musical act—"Feather Merchants," by Edward and Alton Gray and Roland Boyce.

Mrs. William Reiser's studio—Fabet Evans, soloist; Winifred Entrott and John McCullough, duet.

Hank Dean and his ukelele will be heard in a singing and playing number and the Roger Reiser Studios will furnish three acts.

There will be probably several other numbers on the amateur hour, in addition to the professional program.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, March 14.—Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Krum were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Meyers and family of Newburgh, Mr. and Mrs. David Coons and family of High Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Riggs and family of Palenstown and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kator and family of Leibhardt.

Miss Esther Crispell of Kingston spent the week-end with her parents.

Conrad Christensen spent last week Friday in New York on business.

Miss Hattie Donahue, who has been ill for a few weeks, is now able to be about the house.

The Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer spent one day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Every at Whitfield.

Wednesday of last week the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer were in Kingston on business and visited Miss Esther Wood at the Benedictine Hospital, also the Rev. Mr. Barringer's sister, Mrs. Katherine Burger, at 11 Delaware avenue.

Lincoln and Oscar Christensen of New York City spent the week-end with their parents and sister.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller were Mr. and Mrs. George Schick of Fort Ewen, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Waterfall of Schenectady.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller were dinner guests of friends in Kingston Saturday evening.

Miss Reita Pedersen, who has been spending several weeks with her sisters at Brooklyn, has returned to her home here.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the prayer and recreation group which was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Violet Christensen, there were 15 present, and the resignation of Miss Phyllis James, the president, and Sherman Miller, the secretary and treasurer, were accepted, and Miss Violet Christensen was elected president and Mrs. Loren Hoyer was elected secretary and treasurer. The newly elected president has appointed Mrs. William H. Barringer honorary president. The next regular meeting will be March 21, at the home of Miss Reita Pedersen, at 10 o'clock, when the by-laws will be presented and voted upon. Every one of the church is invited to attend this meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society held last Friday at the home of Mrs. Hattie Donahue, there were enrolled three new members, making now a total of 20 active members. At this meeting it was voted the society would buy 20 of the new song books for the church and plans for the public supper to be held next week Thursday, March 23, at the home of Luther Merrihew, were completed.

Mrs. Ernest Smith of Kingston visited her father, John Barringer, last Friday and attended the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Clayton Christiana has completed putting an electric light in the rear porch of the parsonage, also changing and putting in new new outlets in the parsonage wiring.

Mrs. Katie Davis was called to Olive Bridge last Sunday evening due to the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Cecil M. Gray, who was removed to the Kingston Hospital that day for treatment.

Church school will meet next Sunday morning with the superintendent, Clayton Christiana, in charge. The subject of study will be "Peter Exhorta to Christian Living." Morning worship will be at 11 o'clock, with the sermon by the pastor. Subject of sermon, "Seeking the Prize." Subject of sermon for the children will be "Hear No Evil."

GIVING A HAND TO THE HAND of President Roosevelt when he pressed a telegraph key lighting a lamp in the Campfire Girls' new national headquarters in New York, Margaret Birge and Jane Brandt (right) really shared in this ceremony. Margaret and Jane are from Arlington, Va., and each wore the crossed logs and flame insignia familiar to the 250,000 Campfire Girls in U. S. The newly-lighted lamp is fashioned into a crossed logs and flame.

UNTO THE THIRD GENERATION persists the tradition of lion-taming that puts 18-year-old Ernest Engerer, Jr., in a cage with lions at the WPA circus in Jamaica, Long Island. Both his father and grandfather tamed lions; his father was badly clawed by three lions at a recent feeding time, and Schoolboy Ernest took over the act. He says: "You must never, absolutely never, take a backward step inside the arena. After I get out and start thinking, I feel weak."

LOOKS LIKE A CATERPILLAR CLUB meeting aboard the British troopship Ettrick which sailed from Southampton, England, carrying soldiers and sailors to service in India. Viewed from overhead, the hammocks slung around the necks of the men looked like great caterpillars as the troopers moved about the deck. Many of these men will see prolonged service abroad.

Reformed Church Men's Club Will Meet Friday Evening

The Men's Club of the First Reformed Church will meet Friday evening at 8 o'clock, with the Rev. William R. Peckham, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church as guest speaker. He has selected as his subject: "Speed is Power." The following committee will be in charge for the evening: Bartram Houghtaling, chairman; Dr. H. W. Keator, Joseph Hasbrouck, A. N. Graham, Leonard Hinkley, the Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, John W. Harris, Ward B. Ingalshe, Frank Koudhoudt, James F. Loughran, Jacob Lay, William G. Merritt and D. H. Mowell. A large attendance of the men of the church and congregation is desired.

Rag Sorters Find Many Valuables in Old Duds

"It's in the bag!" is an expression which has a literal meaning to workers in the Yorkshire town of Dewsbury, center of the rag trade. Rags from all over the world find their way here. They come to be sorted, graded, reduced by machinery to threads, and then reweaved into new cloth, says London Answers Magazine.

The job of rag-sorting in the warehouses is one that is full of surprises. Go into any big rag warehouse in Dewsbury, you'll hear of, and see some of the things they find "in the bag." The offices of some of these businesses are regular museums.

One of them numbers among its collection of curious things found among the rags dead rats and rabbits. These, needless to say, are not retained for exhibition purposes. Coins are often found in the pockets of old suits and loose among the contents of the rags. If the coins are discovered before the rags go through the machinery, then the sorters are so much better off financially; if not, the coins are usually damaged and eventually find their way to the banks and go into "retirement."

Meaning of Wet, Dry Bulb

The United States Weather bureau says: "When we speak of the temperature of the air, the dry bulb temperature is referred to; in other words, the dry bulb is the ordinary thermometer. By the wet bulb temperature is meant the temperature as shown by a thermometer, the bulb of which has been covered with a piece of muslin wet with water and from which the water has been permitted to evaporate at a rapid rate so that the lowest temperature is registered. That is, the evaporating water cools the bulb of the thermometer. With these two temperature readings and with the aid of a set of tables called psychrometric tables, the relative humidity and the temperature of the dewpoint are computed. Relative humidities and dewpoint temperatures have wide application in various fields."

Roosevelt Gives Relief Message

ance with recent law and all possible economies in administration and operations were being sought and "will be constantly checked, but here again the cold facts, which have been given insufficient emphasis require restatement."

"Out of every $100 of federal funds expended by the WPA," he said, "only $35.50 is for administrative overhead; $10.50 is spent for materials, equipment and supplies; $56 is paid out directly in the form of wages. As a business proposition it occurs to me that some modicum of commendation is in order."

400,000 Will Lose Aid

Without an additional appropriation, the President said the WPA must issue orders within the next week to top off 400,000 from the rolls and another cut of 600,000 the first week in May. Another cut of 200,000 will have to be made early in June.

Counting dependents, the number affected by the reductions would be 4,000,000 within the next few weeks and nearly 1,000,000 more later on.

"To these," he said, "must be added the 'waiting list' category—because it is obvious that while people now on the rolls are being discharged no people can be employed from the 'waiting list.'"

The President said he believed states, counties and municipalities were doing in most cases "all that their finances will permit to meet the situation."

"I further believe," he added, "that, with few exceptions, those who are employed are actually in need and are not receiving more than they should in the form of federal assistance."

Council Will Meet

The executive council of the Wurts Street Baptist Men's Club will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Ferdinand Voight on Albany avenue, Wednesday. The president urges all members of the council to be present as important business is to be transacted, and a slate of new officers is to be selected for nomination.

Colonial Women's Bowling Schedule

The schedule and handicaps for this week's matches in the Colonial Women's League are printed below.

Due to a break in the schedule, only four matches will be played this week. Sampsons and Millers are idle but both of these clubs have holdover matches to make up before the start of the Shagbush playoffs.

An important meeting of the league captains and officials will be held Thursday night at the Central Recreation alleys at 8 o'clock.

The schedule:

Wednesday

7:15—Slacks (22) vs. Shooting Stars 1-2.

7:15—Dolsons (32) vs. Myers Five 3-4.

Friday

7:15—Peters (16) vs. Crescents 1-2.

7:15—Telcos vs. Johnsons (70) 3-4.

Redeemers, Clintons, Saints
Win Church Cage ContestsCrystal Beasts
Have Busy Slate

The Crystal Beauty Shoppe bowling team resumes its exhibition schedule Saturday night against the Herkimer Richmonds at the State Recreation alleys in Albany. Each team won on the other's alleys, and the capital lanes were chosen for the neutral match.

Following the Herkimer contest, the Crystals will roll several more outstanding matches. On Saturday, March 25, they are scheduled to invade Mount Vernon for a crack at Mike Shirghio and the Vernon Heights team of that city.

The Mount Vernon kegler's return to Kingston on Saturday, April 1, and on the following night, the Crystals will be hosts to Joe Falcato and his All Stars on their return from the national tournament in Cleveland.

A money match is pending against Wally Gerken and the Nyack Roofers. Negotiations already have been completed for a 14-game match for $100 between John Ferraro and Wally Gerken.

The Crystals' schedule:

Saturday, March 18—Herkimer Richmonds at Albany.

Saturday, March 25—Vernon Heights at Mount Vernon, N. Y., with Mike Shirghio.

Saturday, April 1—Vernon Heights at Central Recreation alleys.

Sunday, April 2—Joe Falcato's All Stars at Central Rec.

Pending—Nyack Roofers and Metropolitan Clothes of Capitol Classic League.

Merchants' Chance

Against the Elks

The Uptown Merchants will have an opportunity to put themselves in the running for second half honors in the American Division of the City Basketball League tonight when they meet the Elks at the municipal auditorium at 7 o'clock. In the other contests scheduled for tonight, the Knights meet the Leonards in a National Division fray, and Forstis stack up against the Fuller Shirts.

The Elks, a flashy young quintet, proved to be the nemesis of the Merchants in the first half, defeating them in an exciting overtime game that went for three extra periods and knocked the Merchants out of first place.

However, the Merchants hold an early season win over the Elks, having handed the Big Horns a decisive trouncing in their first meeting. Plenty of action is expected in the third and last time these teams play each other this season.

Tonight's schedule:

7—Elks vs. Uptown Merchants (A).

8—Knights vs. Leonard (N).

9—Forstis vs. Fuller (A).

Preliminary tomorrow: J. Y. vs. Elks.

Program Ready

For Bettina Ball

All is in readiness for the victory ball and entertainment to be tendered in honor of newly crowned world's lightweight champion, Melio Bettina of Beacon, in Poughkeepsie Armory on Friday night, March 24. George Hall, his orchestra, and Dolly Dawn, the vocalist, will be on hand for the gala occasion.

A crowd of 2,500, it is figured, will attend the important Hudson Valley social and sport event.

Efforts are being made to have an outstanding figure in sport present Bettina with a solid gold belt emblematic of the title.

Meeting at 'Y' Tonight to Talk

About Ulster-Greene Tourney

It was announced today by Chuck Henke, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., that his organization would again sponsor the Ulster-Greene County Basketball Tournament for amateurs. A meeting to prepare for the event is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Teams interested in entering are asked to have a representative at the meeting.

Last season the Kendalls, after a hard battle with the Keystones, came out as champions. Mr. Henke recalled. "The tournament was a success and we hope that this season an even greater number of clubs will enter," he said. Teams in the City and Church leagues are eligible as well as the various amateur clubs playing in and around Ulster county. Director Henke is anxious to list about 16 entries.

Tonight's meeting, although the first to arrange for this season's tourney, is important to managers contemplating entering teams. Although no definite arrangement has been made for the first games, Director Henke said he is anxious to start early in April.

Former High School Cagers to Play White Eagles on Friday

The highlight of the basketball program this week, for Kingston, aside from the American League match at the auditorium, is that match Friday, St. Patrick's night, at White Eagle Hall, between Frank Wojciechowski's cagers and the Kingston Stars, made up of players from the disbanded high school varsity.

"Those DUSO champions are a fine combination," said the manager of the Polish quintet, "but I think my boys can take them over." Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock, and there promises Redeemer, Clinton Avenue and St. Mary's five were the winners last night in the regular weekly card of Church League games played at the Y. M. C. A. court.

The powerful Redeemer quintet had an easy time taking the scalp of the Presbyterians, 36-24. Redeemer took the lead at the beginning and held a nine-point advantage at half time. From then on it was just a case of keeping the lead until the final whistle.

Eddie Bock was the star for Redeemer with nine points. Tony Berinato ran off with the honors for Presbyterians with 10 points.

The Clinton Avenue-First Dutch game ran true to form, with the Clintons coming out on the long end of a 32-19 score.

First Dutch played a hard fast game but it was just a case of Clinton Avenue having the better team. Ken Slater took the individual honors for First Dutch with eight points and Cowboy Every scored high for Clinton Avenue with 10.

St. Mary's nosed out Comforter in the last game, 30-20. For the first half it looked as though Comforter had returned to the form that won the first half championship, but at the beginning of the third quarter St. Mary's flashed the form that will probably win the second half for them.

Although Comforter played without the services of Chipe Rhymier, one of their mainstays, they played heads up ball all the way through but failed to come through in the pinches.

Albany made 11 points for St. Mary's and Les Hotaling got three fields for six points to lead the Comforters.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, March 14.—Last week in the contest sponsored by the American Legion, John Walker, a senior in the Marlborough Central High School, won first prize. The topic of the prize winning speech on "Constitutional Rights and the Dictatorships." Miss Lillian Dawes won second prize. Her topic was "The Citizen's Privileges and Duties." This is not the first time that Walker won. In January he captured first prize in a contest sponsored by the New York State Horticultural Society. The Legion contest was held in the auditorium of the Central School. Allen H. Purdy, commander of the Charles Vieby Post, American Legion, acted as chairman. Walter H. Baxter, adjutant of the post, made a few brief remarks before the contestants were heard. There were eight taking part. Besides Mr. Walker and Miss Dawes there were Helen Sanders, Patti Sears, Ralph McCord, Frances Clarke, Rosario Pagano and Gloria Gasparoli. The judges were Miss Ethel Ratcliffe, Miss Joanne Grady and John Gable, members of the school faculty.

At the regular meeting of the Marlborough Hose Company held last week, Thomas Pollizzi, a new member was admitted. Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by a committee headed by John Lynn, Jr., J. Doyle Hutchins and John Mungar. Hunter DeWitt was appointed as chairman for the refreshment committee for the April meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Charles Vieby Post, American Legion, held Friday evening, two new members were received. They were Cluett Schantz and Salvatore Scilla, both of Marlborough. The Legion authorized the purchase of a new soda water cabinet and voted the necessary funds to pay for its purchase. It was also voted to buy a new glass front case in which guns will be placed. A motion was made and carried that the Legion will not rent their hall to other organizations for meeting places.

At the meeting of the P. E. O. held recently new officers were elected for the coming year. Mrs. Irving Rathgeb of Highland was elected as president, she succeeds Mrs. Beatrice Waldin, who served as president last year. Other officers include Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Jr., of Highland, vice-president; Mrs. Malcolm Dunlop, of Marlborough, recording secretary; Mrs. Laura Harcourt of Highland, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Edmund Carpenter of Marlborough, treasurer. Delegates appointed to the convention in Syracuse June 9 and 10 are Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, alternate; Mrs. Louise Welker, Mrs. Rowena Haviland, alternate, Mrs. Malcolm Dunlop.

Meaning of Filter in Photography

A filter is a transparent colored medium interposed between the object and the film in the path of the light rays reflected by the object. It may be a colored gelatin wafer mounted in the barrel of the lens, or it may be a colored gelatin sheet cemented between glass and mounted over the front or over the rear element of the lens. A filter may be of almost any color. Its function is either to screen completely from the film one or more colored light rays or to weaken the intensity of certain colored rays or to both.

IN COUNTY GRANGES

Mr. Tremper Grange

The first regular meeting of Mr. Tremper Grange, No. 1468, for the month of March was held in the Grange rooms Friday evening with Master George R. Byron in the chair.

Miss Carolyn Zauner, Bert Wiane, Jr., Rolf Hansen and Howard Umbrey were obligated in the first and second degrees of the order.

A lecturer's hour committee in charge of the literary hour presented a program as follows: Musical selections . . . Orchestra Ev's Honey-moon . . . One Act Play Songs—"Old Oaken Bucket," "When You and I Were Young," "Maggie" . . . Chorus Love On the Mountain . . . Chorus

One Act Play Song—Darling Nellie Gray . . . Chorus

In the first play the cast was as follows: Joseph Haver . . . Roger . . . Carolyn Zauner . . . George R. Byron . . . Norman S. Wilber . . . Ruth J. Wilber . . . Margaret Hinsdale . . . Harry W. Carter . . . Margaret Hinsdale . . . Jack Turner . . . Harry W. Carter . . . Directed by Joseph Haver.

The costumes and make-up for both plays was under the direction of Grant Decker.

The chorus in charge of Mrs. George G. Byron consisted of Mrs. Byron, Mrs. Frank Carter, Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, Miss Zola Riseley and Carleton Hoyt.

with Mrs. Carleton Hoyt at the piano.

The lecturer's committee chairman, Brother Norman S. Wilber, has announced that due to popular request a second dramatic program will be presented on Friday evening, April 28. The chairman will retain the present committee consisting of worthy Master George R. Byron, Overseer Harry Carter, Steward Joseph Haver, and Sisters Margaret Hinsdale and Ruth Wilber and will appoint additional members to the committee.

The refreshment committee for the evening were Sisters Barbara Langenegger, Byron and Burroughs, and Brothers Richard Lane, Jack Hillowitz and Hubert Wilber.

The next regular meeting will be held Friday night, March 24. After the meeting Brother William Spanhoke sang several hill-billy songs. Grant Decker then sang the hymn, "In the Garden." Then changing from the sublime to the ridiculous Mr. Decker sang "Sippin' Cider Through a Straw." Mr. Decker then led the Grange in singing several old favorites. Music for dancing was furnished by Brothers William Spanhoke and Carleton Hoyt, violin; and Grant Decker at the piano.

House Authorizes Claim

The House passed and sent to the Senate Monday a bill authorizing payment by the federal government of a claim growing out of an automobile accident on July 2, 1935, at Ellenville when Benjamin Weisenberg of Brooklyn was struck by a department of agriculture truck. The claim is for $1,000. A claim of Frank Gedney of Newburgh, civilian employe at Iona Island between 1917 and 1920, would be referred to U. S. Employees Compensation Commission by a bill. He claims disability because of powder poisoning.
